Consisting of Greek, Russian and Egyptian antiquities from the Ninth Century.

B. C., in gold, glass, terra-cotta, silver and pottery; the majority excavated from old cemeteries in the ancient Greek colony of Olbia, Southern Russia, under the direction of the owner Mr. Joseph Chmielowski, and with great difficulty brought out by him through the Boishevist lines. Many objects are exceedingly precious and are similar to the rurest in the British Museum, New York Metropolitan Museum and the Louvre—for example, bronze implements going back to the Bronze Age, terra-cotta showing all phases of the development of thiart from prehistoric times, two frescoes of Diana and Dionysius which have preserved their pristine colors, a large number of surgical instruments giving a good idea of medical science before the Christian era, over one hundred bead necklaces and two priceless gold necklaces with other very beautiful gold jewelry, tops which prove that Greek artists of the Fourth Century, B. C., or earlier had made the acquaintance of the polar bear and the Indian rhinoceros.
